ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

This invention relates to a reagent mixture, as well as to a method and apparatus, for carrying out simultaneous, automated analysis of multiple analytes in a test sample, particularly a bodily fluid. The invention is especially relevant to the field of general clinical 5   chemistry, but may find application in other fields of use.